2. PERSONAL PROFILE

A good-natured, open-minded problem-solver with a strong sense of self. Trustworthiness and integrity form an integral part of who she is. Resilient in every aspect; no stranger to challenges, extensively externally aware.

Believes in prudent listening and communication are the key to forming healthy relationships, professionally and otherwise. Very passionate about helping people in any way possible, after all, one kind gesture can change the world, one individual, at a time, thus believing in teamwork.

On the upside, she is a very friendly, easy-going young woman who appreciates the gift of life and family with thirst or an appetite for knowledge and independence. She aspires to bring motivation and hope to herself and everyone. I am a beacon of hope to those in despair that there is indeed a brighter tomorrow, and it starts with the readiness to work hard.

3. CAREER GOAL/OBJECTIVE

I am looking for an exciting opportunity match my ambitious nature and to kick-start my career in the IT world and show off my potential. As a dynamic young person, flexibility is at the core and a top priority. I would like to be in an experimental environment that promotes creative problem-solving as well as team-building and cooperation over conflict. I look forward to realizing my potential and expanding my professional knowledge and training.

I bring passion and divergent thinking combined with a thirst for knowledge and personal and professional growth which is what this opportunity would grant me. My appreciable interpersonal skills would also be an added benefit, which, I read, is what sets your culture apart. Eventually, the long-term goal would be to grow professionally into a System Analyst.
